Good Friend, Good Deeds

Annie is my best friend. She is ten years old, so she is the same age as me. She lives in Sha Tin.

She is tall, around 143 cm. She has small ears, and long straight hair.

She is hardworking. She does revision after school. For example, we had an assessment at school last Tuesday. Our assessment paper had two questions about our previous units.

After the assessment, Annie said, 'This assessment is very easy. I have already studied the last two units. At school, she is very kind.

For example, she cares about others' feelings. Last time, May tripped over her school bag in our classroom. Then Annie walked towards her and asked, 'May I bring you to the medical room?' My classmates like her a lot because she always takes care of others, helps others with their homework, solves others' problems and treats others well. At home, Annie protects her sister. Her family is very proud of her.

I feel joyful because I met her five years ago. She is the kindest friend I have ever met. I need to treasure her as my friend. We should be kind to others, so we will have precious friendship. I hope we can still be good friends when we grow up!
